12 Essential Tips on how to best prepare for your stay

FOOD &amp; DINING	There are thousands of places to eat in Paris, but there are some things you should know about them: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Not all of them serve food all day. French people eat lunch between 12 - 2 pm - and dinner starts at 7:00. If you're looking for a sit-down meal outside of those hours - find a cafe or brasserie with "Service Continue".</li> <li>• It's also good to know about when locals eat so you can avoid crowds and lines by eating before or after they all show up.</li> <li>• Prices on a French menu already include tax and tips. Though the French love having Americans because they often tip anyway!</li> <li>• While you're in a restaurant, don't forget to use the restroom. You probably won't find another one easily while you're out sightseeing.</li> </ul>
AVOIDING LINES	If you want to avoid lines for popular attractions in Paris it's best to buy your tickets in advance.. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Buy our tickets online from an authorized seller with an appointment time: for instance, the Louvre, and the Catacombs, will have you choose what time you want to arrive</li> <li>• Buy a guided tour from a reputable vendor with an appointed time. And there are links below in the descriptions</li> </ul>
TRANSPORTATION &amp; CARS	People often ask whether they should rent a car in Paris. Our answer is NO. The driving rules are different, the roads are congested, and it's difficult and expensive to park. And honestly, you will get around faster on foot or bike and the metro system is safe, clean, and very efficient. If you prefer to travel by car, use the G7 app to book a taxi. If you aren't using the app, make sure you're getting into a REAL taxi (with the sign on top). Also, not all taxis take credit cards, so if that matters to you, be sure to ask before accepting the ride. And, if you want a private driver, you can hire an airport car through Viator (and likely other rides while you are here as well). If you expect to use Uber, plan on traffic backups and add extra time to your commute inside Paris. We have heard bad reviews from people trying to order an Uber and expecting it to be just like in the US. It's not. They are anywhere from great to awful and you may find there are no cars available. Have a backup plan.

SHOES &amp; FASHION	I know. Paris is a center of fashion and you want to look your best. But make sure you pack for both practical and pretty. Think about these three things when you're planning: shoes, temperature, and transition. First and foremost, protect your feet! Fancy shoes are great, but you won't see Parisienne women wearing them running around town. Plan on wearing comfortable shoes. You're going to do a lot of walking. And not just walking, uphill walking, lots of stairs and cobblestone streets. While the cobblestone streets are charming, they can be hard to walk on and they are really hard on the body. Even wearing sneakers, my feet, legs, knees, and back often hurt for days after walking on lots of cobblestones. If you find yourself on cobblestone streets, look for a flat surface. Just trust me on this one! Next, Paris is about the same latitude as Toronto. Dressing in layers is important any time of year. You will often see Parisienne women wearing a scarf or light sweater even in the summer because you can get cool breezes or it can get chilly when the sun is blocked. Pack something you can use for a little extra cover-up. Lastly, when you're out seeing the sights, you may get caught up in what you are doing and the day runs into the night, especially during summer months when it can stay light after 10 pm. Think about what you can pack to transition the same outfit from daytime sightseeing to an evening out if need be.
PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION	The public transportation system in Paris is amazing and easy to use. You have the metro and RER which are the suburban trains and buses. And you can use the same tickets or Navigo Pass for all of them. The metros and RER are mostly underground and run just about every five minutes. Busses are a great way to get around and see the city along the way. You can use Google maps to find the best routes and where to get your ride. Just ask for a metro station near me or directions to the Eiffel Tower and tap the public transportation icon and you'll get what you need. For more information about using the metro in Paris, check out our videos on how to buy tickets and use the metro.
BASIC WORDS &amp; PHRASES	Speaking French can help make your time in France a little nicer. While you can't learn everything in a hurry, there are some words that will come in handy: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Bonjour - which means hello</li> <li>● Excusez moi - excuse me</li> <li>● S'il vous plaît - Please</li> <li>● Sortie - means exit</li> <li>● Formule dejeuner - is a lunch meal (like a daily special)</li> <li>● Au revoir - means goodbye</li> </ul> For anything else you need to communicate, we recommend using Google Translate. You can either type or speak a word or phrase and your phone will either show you or "speak" it in French. The same is true if you want to understand what someone else is telling you in French. Have them speak into Google Translate and you can see or hear what they are saying in English.

BE CAREFUL PICKPOCKETS &amp; SCAMS	Paris is a safe city, and it's a big tourist destination. And like all tourist places, there are pickpockets and other opportunists you should be aware of. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Pickpockets here are not violent. They are sneaky and often work in teams where one will distract you while the other slips in your bag. You may not even know you've been pickpocketed until much later.</li> <li>● Things you want to pay attention to are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Your mobile phone - these are often taken from a pocket standing in a metro or if they are on a table of a terrace cafe - know where your phone is</li> <li>○ Your bag or purse - French people wear their bags under their coats on the metro. They carry them in the front. We also pay attention to where the zipper closes. A thief is not likely to take your whole bag. They would slip in and take what's close and convenient. Put anything valuable in an inside zipper or at the bottom.</li> </ul> </li> <li>● And the best way to avoid worrying about any of this is to pay attention to your surroundings. These are lazy opportunists looking for easy targets.</li> <li>● For more info check out our video on Scams</li> </ul>
GROCERY SHOPPING	If you're renting an Airbnb or VBRO your visit to Paris will include grocery shopping. The good news is that there are many supermarkets, small grocers, and weekly or bi-weekly fresh markets all around. Buying fresh produce, bottled water or ready-made items is easy to do. Major grocery chains include Carrefour or Carrefour Express, Monoprix, Franprix. A few things you may want to know are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Stores do not offer free bags. If you don't bring one with you, you can buy one for 1 euro</li> <li>● Tax is already included in the price</li> <li>● One kilo is a little over two pounds</li> <li>● Milk and eggs are not in the dairy department</li> </ul>
GETTING SICK IN PARIS - FRANCE	If you get sick or need medicine in Paris, the place to go is a Pharmacy. Grocery stores and smaller markets may sell q-tip or feminine products, but they do NOT sell things like aspirin, antacid or allergy medicine, or any other kind of medicine. In France, the Pharmacist is a professional who can offer remedies and that's the place to go. Some may speak English, but be prepared to use Google Translates to communicate if need be. You will recognize the pharmacies by the large green crosses (often blinking). By the way, in the US, this may look like a weed store. It is NOT. This is NOT Amsterdam. In France, marijuana is illegal and they take it seriously. If you were thinking about that, just don't. You'd probably regret it.

BONUS: BATHROOMS IN PARIS	When it comes to bathrooms in France, the rule is GO before you leave your hotel or restaurant! Seriously, if you see one, use it. When you are out and about, it's not reasonable to expect stores and other places to have a bathroom. There are paid public toilets around tourist areas. That's a good thing if you've really got to go, but that doesn't mean you'll have the right change handy - or that you'll like the experience. If you do find yourself in this situation, don't try to double up. The door will swing open on the second person. What Antoine/Colleen and I generally do is stop in a cafe. Toilets are available for patrons, so we buy a cup of coffee at the counter. It's worth a euro and a half to use a real toilet. It's best to plan ahead.
MOBILE DATA &amp; SIM CARDS	Depending on your mobile carrier or plan, you may not have service when you arrive in France. Some US carriers charge $10/day to use your phone or data here. It's reasonable to expect free wifi in your hotel or in restaurants. But if you want to stay connected on the go, or if you get here and your phone doesn't work the way your carrier said it would, buying a French SIM card makes sense. There are a few good places where you can buy one: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● FNAC stores - including one inside CDG on the mezzanine level of Terminal 2E - one inside Les Halles (main metro/RER station and shopping mall) and in other places throughout town</li> <li>● Orange and SFR are the French version of Verizon or AT&amp;T. They have stores all around Paris where you can buy a SIM card</li> <li>● Plan on spending 30-50 euros depending on how much data you think you will use. If you are traveling in other European countries, find out if the one you buy will work only in France or if you can use it along other travels.</li> </ul>
POWER ADAPTERS	Electric outlets in France are not the same as in the US or other countries. You don't want to get here and be surprised that you can't charge your phone or laptop. And while a hotel may have a lender, it's likely one someone left behind when they checked out. You can't count on that! Before you travel, get yourself a power adapter for FRANCE or a EUROPEAN set that works for all the places you may be going on your trip. The French one looks like this. If you didn't bring one with you, you can buy one at a store like FNAC (like Barnes &amp; Nobles) or Darty (like Best Buy)  See Les Frenchies Travel Gear:  https://lesfrenchiestravel.com/travel-gear/

MAJOR SHOPPING LOCATIONS IN PARIS

GALERIES LAFAYETTE HAUSSMANN
40 Boulevard Haussmann - Paris 9th Arr
(Opera Area)

Iconic department store with gourmet food court, central art nouveau dome, and rooftop restaurant
(Multiple locations)

<https://bit.ly/GalerieLafayetteHaussmann>

BON MARCHÉ
24 Rue de Sevres - Paris 7th Arr
(St Germain)

Department store with gourmet food section and food court. At the heart of the feminist movement, this was the first place women in Paris were allowed to run errands unescorted by their husbands.

<https://bit.ly/BonMarcheParis>

PRINTEMPS DU LOUVRE
99 Rue Rivoli - Paris 1st Arr
(Louvre Area)

Luxury department store which is also a historic monument with stunning domes and statues. It is both open for shopping and for tours that take you to private areas including its rooftop.
(Multiple locations)

<https://bit.ly/PrintempsduLouvre>

BHV (BAZAAR HOTEL de VILLE)
52 Rue de Rivoli - Paris - 4th Arr
(Marais)

Mid-range department store with quality goods for fashion, lifestyle, decor, and more. There is also a cafeteria-style restaurant on the top floor with limited views of the area.

<https://bit.ly/BHVLeMarais>

SAMARITAINE
9 Rue de la Monnaie - Paris 1st Arr
(Louvre Area)

An historic monument with luxury department store shopping, restaurants and a boutique hotel (including a penthouse suite with private swimming pool)

PARIS COVERED PASSAGES

Covered Passages were the precursors to shopping centers and transformed shopping from running errands on dirt roads in all kinds of weather into elegant outings. Here are a few that we think should be added to any visit to Paris.

📍 Galerie Vivienne

<https://bit.ly/GalerieVivienne>

📍 Passage Jouffroy

<https://bit.ly/LePassageJouffroyParis>

📍 Passages des Panoramas

<https://bit.ly/PassagedesPanoramas>

📍 Passage Choiseul

<https://bit.ly/PassageChoiseul>

📍 Passage du Grand Cerf

<https://bit.ly/PassageduGrandCerf>

THRIFT STORES

If you are interested in checking out some of the many thrift stores around Paris, search or look for the words "vintage", "Hippie" or "friperies" in the name of the store.

You can also look up used clothing stores. As with anything, there is a wide variety of what to expect in both quality and pricing, but there are some great values and exciting things to be found.

📍 FLEA MARKET OF ST OUEN
(Les Puces)

52 Rue de Rivoli - Paris - 4th Arr
(Marais)

Located in the north of Paris, a few steps away from the Sacre Coeur Basilica and Moulin Rouge, Les Puces is known as one of the largest Flea Market in the world.

For a fun-filled weekend, it's one of the best places to go shopping in Paris:

- antique jewelry
- furniture
- old books
- records, and vintage clothes

Les Puces de Saint Ouen, is the perfect address to pick up a present for the hard-to-please and fashionista hipsters with the help of antique trade dealers.

TRANSPORTATION WITH PRIVATE DRIVERS

When you are arriving in Paris or you're looking for a private transfer to get around, you can take a taxi, an Uber or hire a private driver. Just make sure to add some extra time to your commute. Traffic backups can get pretty bad.

- If you take a taxi, download the G7 app (<https://bit.ly/G7TaxiApp>) and use that to order a taxi. If you're not using the app, please use taxi stands and make sure the vehicle has the official taxi sign on top. "Fake taxi" scams are a real thing here. And make sure the driver accepts credit cards if that matters to you.
- Calling an Uber is just like anywhere else. But your experience may be different. The rides range anywhere from awful to excellent, and there's no guarantee that you can find a car. And, it may be helpful to confirm your destination with the driver. I've spoken with people who wound up at the wrong address because there are many things that seem the same to non-French speakers, but are very different to locals. Use Google Maps and You may want to have Google Translate to be sure.
- Private for-hire drivers are another option. It's best to hire them through a reliable service (that has something at stake in the quality they provide). Here are some links you can use if you prefer a private car.
